Hollywood's go-to docs come clean

Welcome to Beverly Hills, where you can never be too rich, too successful or too beautiful — and where the top plastic surgeons are almost as famous as the celebrities they treat. “This is the most competitive area in the world to be a cosmetic surgeon,” says Dr. David Amron, who stars alongside four of his professional peers — and pals — in the new Netflix reality series Celebrity Plastic Surgeons of Beverly Hills. “You have to be at the very top of your game.” Dr. Amron and his castmates talked to In Touch about their star clientele, who has the best — and worst — work in Hollywood and what it really takes to be the doc A-listers have on speed dial. — Reporting by Diana Cooper

Tell All!

DR. KEVIN SANDS
A-LIST CLIENTS: Justin Bieber, Eva Longoria, Miley Cyrus, “all the Kardashians” and more — plus royals and Russian billionaires. “But I treat everyone the same,” insists the famed dentist.
IN-DEMAND: The single dad of three, who charges up to $100,000 for services, is pioneering sleep dentistry, allowing patients to get work “while comfortably asleep.”
CRAZIEST REQUESTS: “We have royalty that comes in and shuts down the entire floor,” says the doc, 42, who offers massages, mani-pedis, acting coaches — even matchmakers — in his office!
GOOD WORK: “Kim Kardashian has a beautiful mouth. Joe Manganiello has a very masculine smile with great shape and color.”
BAD WORK: No comment. He doesn’t want to hurt anyone’s fillings!

DR. ROBERT REY
A-LIST CLIENTS: The 54-year-old Brazil native and former Dr. 90210 star won’t name names, but says, “Almost everyone over 35 in Hollywood has had something done — and most of them by me. Thirty-five percent of the butts you saw on the red carpet at the Oscars are man-made.”
IN-DEMAND: Dr. Rey does about four butt surgeries and three boob jobs a day, mainly using stem cell transfers. For roughly $5,000, “I suck out fat from your belly, take the stem cells and inject them into the breast or butt, where they become tissue.”
CRAZIEST REQUESTS: A woman looking to increase her size FFF breasts (he declined).
GOOD WORK: “J. Lo’s and Kim Kardashian’s are nice but I believe they’ve had help,” says Dr. Rey, who’s married with two kids.

BAD WORK: Anyone with over-the-top cleavage. “Big boobs are out,” declares the doc.

DR. DAVID AMRON
A-LIST CLIENTS: “I see a lot of industry people,” says Dr. Amron, who once worked on Kathy Griffin. “How do I put this in a nice way?” he says of the comedian. “She definitely wasn’t boring.”
IN-DEMAND: “I do a lot of revision liposuction,” shares the founder of The Roxbury Institute. “Every week, a patient comes in with botched lipo. I’ve seen skin fused to muscle.” His prices range from $10,000 to $15,000 per procedure.
CRAZIEST REQUESTS: “Some patients have very full areas around the vagina,” reveals the doc. “I will do micro-liposuction there.”
GOOD WORK: The 55-year-old married dad of three says, “Demi Moore may have had things refined — she has a great body.”
BAD WORK: “My aesthetic is not in line with things that are overly done,” says the doc, listing Kim Kardashian and Mariah Carey as examples of people who look “a little too prominent in certain areas.”

DR. JASON DIAMOND
A-LIST CLIENTS: Fellow Dr. 90210 alum Dr. Diamond, 45, says 30 percent of his patients are celebs. “I have a very, very famous star in her 20s coming in tomorrow for facial sculpting,” he reveals.
IN-DEMAND: The married father of two, who specializes in nose jobs, face-lifts and Diamond facial sculpting (his $1,500 to $10,000 procedure that uses strategically placed fillers to sculpt the face) clocks in 15 to 20 hours a day.
CRAZIEST REQUESTS: “Women in their 50s who ask to look exactly like Kim Kardashian.”
GOOD WORK: “I can’t say who has the best nose job in Hollywood, because I did it,” laughs the doc.
BAD WORK: “Michael Jackson’s nose job was obviously the worst.”

DR. CRAIG ZIERING
A-LIST CLIENTS: “I’ve worked with more celebs than any hair surgeon in the world,” says the doc, who was starstruck when he treated his first movie star. “He was my idol.”
IN-DEMAND: He invented the Ziering Whorl, which duplicates the hair’s tendency to grow from the scalp in a spiral pattern. Procedures cost $10,000 to $30,000.
CRAZIEST REQUESTS: A woman who asked for a surgical procedure to give her more hair in her private area.
GOOD WORK: The single dad of three, 52, says male patients want hair like Brad Pitt, while women request Gigi Hadid’s trendy brows.
BAD WORK: Donald Trump. “I prefer a more natural look.”
